in a judgement of conviction, i.e., acquittal, dismissal, entry of a nolle prosequi, placement on the stet docket, or probation before judgement. The Court of Appeals explained that the expungement procedure was designed “to help protect individuals seeking employment or admission to an educational institution, by entitling them to expungement of unproven charges, so that those individuals could avoid being unfairly judged during their application processes.” Stoddard v. State, 395 Md. 653, 664 (2006). A petition for expungement was permitted no earlier than three years from the judgement, with an exception if the person
